The Community College Leadership Program (CCL Program) is designed to meet the needs of persons interested in leadership positions at community colleges and other higher education institutions. The CCL Program offers students the opportunity to improve their practice if they are currently serving in a leadership position. If students are seeking a leadership position, the CCL Program offers them the opportunity to develop the cognitive, emotional and interpersonal skills required for success in such appointments.

Program Objectives

- To provide a comprehensive and progressive doctoral curriculum that develops the skills needed to successfully lead community colleges.
- To develop students' research skills and abilities to enable them to expand the knowledge base concerning community colleges, effective teaching and student learning.
- To instill or reinforce a commitment to the critical engagement of diversity.
- To assist students in exploring ways to strengthen commitments to open access, the comprehensive mission and instructional quality.

The Adult Education and Training program is designed to prepare practitioners for planning and instructional responsibilities appropriate for adult learners in postsecondary, secondary, community and corporate settings. The program provides learners with the skills needed to successfully administer and deliver a wide range of training and educational programs. Students enroll in courses focusing on program development and evaluation, adult learning theory, instructional methods and electives designed to build upon their own areas of expertise. Recent graduates are currently employed as training coordinators, corporate and military trainers, high school teachers, community college instructors and professional staff in community development agencies.
