The Educational Leadership, College and University Cohort Program is a distance delivery, cohort based Ph.D. program focused on the development of leaders at four year colleges and universities. Its goal is to produce educational leaders and scholar practitioners that contribute to the knowledge and application of knowledge in a College and University setting. The program is a 60-hour, post masters program that includes 30 hours of leadership and administrative course content and 30 hours of research credits, plus comprehensive exams and a dissertation.

The delivery of the program is a blended format. Students are required to travel to Fort Collins for an 8-day extended week each July; the dates for 2009 are July 7-14. Two additional days in January are also required, prior to the beginning of the spring semester. The program is designed to be completed in four to five years, while the student remains employed full-time at an institution of higher education.

The Educational Leadership, Renewal and Change Ph.D. specialization is committed to connecting innovative instruction with applied research in meeting the needs of professionals, locally and at a distance, who want to develop their leadership skills. This is the largest specialization in the School of Education at Colorado State University. Our graduates are in a variety of leadership positions including K-12 schools, colleges, universities, government agencies and nonprofit organizations. The program combines a knowledge of instruction, professional development, leadership, policy, special needs and diverse populations with coursework in a selected area of a student's choosing along with both quantitative and qualitative research methodologies.

Program Objectives

To develop educational leaders who are committed to:

- understanding, modeling and supporting instructional effectiveness;
- promoting inclusive environments and success for all students;
- addressing special needs and appreciating cultural diversity;
- supporting education for equity, social justice and environmental responsibility;
- applying technological advances to teaching and learning environments;
- designing, implementing and evaluating innovative school reform and teacher preparation models;
- facilitating organizational change;
- creating and enhancing local, state and national partnerships;
- analyzing educational policy at federal, state and local levels;
- disseminating professional knowledge;
- understanding and conducting research;
- translating research into practice.

Master's Degree and/or Principal Licensure

Master's Option #2B

Colorado State University, in partnership with local school districts, offers the opportunity to obtain a principal's license and/or a Master's degree on site. The setting for this cohort is hosted by one of the local districts and most courses are held at their site. If you begin the program in Summer 2009, you can complete the Master's degree and the requirements for Principal Licensure by the following summer. If you already have a Master's degree and are interested in Principal Licensure only, you may select the "non-degree" application. Applicants for Principal Licensure must also have a minimum of three years teaching experience in order to apply for the license.
